

*Archaeology and Healing:
Loss and Recovery of Local Indigenous Histories*

A Presentation by David Brule
Friday, April 10th—5:30 PM

Learn aspects of local Indigenous histories and contexts to help in understanding the lifeways, loss, and persistence of Native peoples in our region.

David Brule is chairman of the Nolumbeka Project, Inc. and coordinator of the National Park Service study of the events in the middle of the Connecticut River Valley during King Phillip's War (1675-1676).
